MYSCOUTEE ORIGIN STORY • PART II

What happens when a person becomes evidence inside a system that no longer sees the whole life?

Part II of The MyScoutee Trilogy enters an unresolved period shaped by contracts, tax records, police papers, petitions, courtrooms, and public events. Peter Szabo follows the smaller route by which rules and institutions become measurable in a human life.

The System Between Us keeps documentary record, attributed recollection, memoir, and later public context explicitly distinct. It traces the attempt to repair a failed process, the cost of becoming legible through somebody else's label, and the work that continued under legal uncertainty.

This edition does not invent the ending.
It records the path to the open door.
